HOMECOMING AT WARTBURG BRINGS GRADS

Banquet, Game, Pep Meeting, Final Parade Feature the Homecoming Festivities of Week-end.

Wartburg's Homecoming celebration on Oct. 25 and 26 started with a student body parade on Friday evening. Led by a car filled with cheer leaders, the alumni marched to Brenner Ave. and Third street where the entire parade cheered and sang. A bonfire and football practice fired up the next feature of the evening. After the talks and cheers there was a cake-walk for the business section where the management of the local theatre distributed the theatre tickets.

"Knights" was the theme of the all-morning banquet held at Luther Hall Saturday evening. More than 400 gathered in the room which was decorated in the school colors, orange and white.

After a speech of welcome by Arthur Engelbrecht '37, president of the student body Dr. G. J. Neumann, chairman, introduced Dr. Ernest E. Hertel, who spoke on "Knights." "Knights of Wartburg" was the next toast, by Prof. H. J. Kuhlmann. Prof. Kuhlmann presented a piano solo, and Ralph Dunk, a graduate of Wartburg at Clinton, spoke on "Integrity." The "Gentle Knights" was the last subject of the Rev. R. M. Bruhn's address, in which he stressed the need for loyal backers of the school—both alumni and friends—with a greater sphere of service. Gerhard Voelker, president of the alumni, by the alumni, body, gave a "Hooray for the Team." Prof. J. Brandes addressed the singing group and the band, after which they played the school song, "Wartburg" and members of the Wartburg team. The last event of the evening was a play by local talent of the battle

Trumpet Offices Placed in Old Main

Shakespeare and Schiller stare down with uniformity upon upon the new Trumpet office which will, any day now, be moved from the basement of the Science building to a long quiet room at the end of the second floor of Old Main. Here, in the days of Trumpet to come, The Band of Avon appears appetizingly to record the struggles of his rude for he has looked down upon his room for one generation and is used to receive the whole news stuff coming.

This week the staff members will advance with all the aid of broom and soap, and show presse of their communal Shakespeare and Schiller will have their faces washed and polished; replaced with new rugs the corner, typewriters and files will add to the new room atmosphere. The business department will also often the editor-in-chief's office. For some reason. Columbus is the probable venue of the Trumpet's fate.

Who wants to lend a broom and a willing ear to the good news? Come Tuesday.

FIRE! FIRE!

All Wartburg Hall residents rushed out of their dormitory Tuesday evening, when the excited shout, Boys' Dorm is on fire, was heard through the building. A term arose from the fact that a number of boys decided to eat in the basement, and in their fire hurried gathered combustion, for this weekend the fire department extinguish the blaze.

A comparatively small crowd witnessed the gallant rescue of Leaping Lena, which "Chub" Quade and his unidentified assistants accomplished immediately after the discovery of the flames.

"She's out and cranky," "Chub" said to the reporters that swarmed about him upon his rescue, "but I sure would hate to lose her."

Snake Dance Has Pep Despite Rain

It rained and rained and rained, but Wartburg loyalty must be victor proof or something because a horde of students and Wartburg alumni smashed downtown, and squashed back again to the snake dance last Wednesday that heralded the Wartburg-Nichols game.

The snake dance started at the gym in something like a drizzle. But by the time the rooters were strutting down the middle of Brenner avenue sometimes and sometimes separately, followed by the band, it was really raining.

They formed a big circle in the first intersection across the river, to the accompaniment of a downpour that wanted to cross the street more than anything else, and the Hall Boys' Band played the Purple Pageant. Then came the yells, nonsense against the short breaks for short fifteen minutes while the band furnished inspiration from under the protection of a theater canopy.

Then the rain came down in sheets, everyone straggled back to the gym, and the Wartburg rooters began to wonder whether a pep meeting was worth it. The old, cloth trophy

KNIGHTS DROP HOMECOMER TO AURORA TEAM

Knights Lose, 19-0; Aurora Employs Deceptive Plays, Passes Wide Touchdown in Fourth Quarter.

Before a good homecoming crowd the Wartburg Knights were down to a 19-0 defeat at the hands of Nichols, Buffalo, afternoon, Oct. 26. The game was a nip and tuck affair throughout the first half, Nichols up as lacking enough drive to pull over for touchdown although the ball by having repeatedly placed it in Wartburg territory. The former gains this season the Knights were unable to make effective use of them in mid-field but when they got in the shadow of the goal they clouted down.

In the first half, handling was good on both sides, as few fumbles occurred, especially in passing which was unusually clean and accurate. The Aurora Spartans lived up to their reputation as fast, friendly passers and tricky ball handlers. The Spartan attempted a total of seventeen passes out of which they were completed for 112 yards. Wartburg was also successful in the air in their offensive attack by completing six out of fourteen for a total of 52 yards. The tricky and deceptive plays employed by the Aurora athletes took the Knights continually in trouble. The Knights' playing strength and football must of the way unrelieved by passing attack late in the fourth quarter that resulted in a march down the field eighteen yard first to Aurora's one foot line only to save the game. Support Your Advertisers

Our school paper is made possible through the advertisements of the local merchants. Without their cooperation the Wartburg Trumpet could not be published. We should appreciate their willingness and give evidence of our regard by patronizing them. We realize that many local merchants may, at times, be overburdened with advertising, yet they will continue to place their advertisement in the Trumpet. May we emphasize this point — patronize the merchants who advertise in the Trumpet.

We feel sure that each of you wishes to continue his interest and to keep informed of Wartburg affairs. This can best be accomplished by regularly reading our school paper. We have sent with these first two issues a subscription blank for your convenience. Alumni, Co-operate!

This school paper aims to serve not only the present student body here at Wartburg, but also its many alumni. Wartburg's Alumni association is very large, due to the fact that it is made up of the alumni of four former schools.

It is this large group that the Trumpet will serve by keeping them informed not only of the events here at school, but also of the activities of other alumni. This will tend to make the group a more unified body than is possible by one or two meetings each year.

In order to keep the old grads informed of alumni happenings, the staff asks for cooperation in the collection of alumni news. Old schoolmates will be very interested to read news about you. Alumni, please help us! Send your items to the Alumni Editor, care of the Trumpet.

Let's Combine Chapels

In the first issue of the Trumpet, various students expressed their opinions regarding the most suitable time for daily devotions. The consensus of opinion was unanimous for holding these in the dining-room immediately after the evening meal. Campus sentiment seems to be of this opinion, too. The Trumpet agrees that this is the most logical time. A single devotional service for all resident students would tend toward more unity, which is certainly desirable. In a sense, this would continue the family devotion to which most students are accustomed.

Looking at the question from a practical viewpoint, the combined services presents several advantages. First of all, everyone would be able to attend the devotions. Heretofore the practice of holding boys' chapel at 6:45 p. m. prevented the waiters from attending. Holding chapel immediately after the meal would save a great deal of time. Also by this plan all students would leave the dining hall at one time, making for more order.

This plan has the favor of the majority of residence students. The Trumpet asks that it receive consideration.

Girls Sprint to Make Physical Ed. Classes

Have you seen one of the girls from the "physical ed" tearing down the hall impairing the safety of the other students properly strolling to class? If one is bold enough to stop and question the girl, he gets an answer something like this:

"Hey, look out! Don't stop me now. I'm in a hurry. Got to dress for physicial ed." Then she continues dashing madly through the hall.

It's a good thing physical ed. is only twice a week or far more calamities would result. Bumping into one of these girls suddenly darting around the corner is unexpected and forceful enough to scatter books in all directions. And usually the reply from the girl is, "Sorry, but I'm in a hurry."

With perhaps a hall a dozen such encounters she finally reaches the physical ed class.

Roland Diemer, '35, of St. Paul-Luther, is at Valparaiso, Ind., studying medicine.

Margaret Kuethe, Commercial 1, went home Friday night to Preston, Minn. She attended the Minnesota and Tulane game on Saturday.

REFORMATION AND EDUCATION

October thirty-first will be a holiday at Wartburg college. A divine service will be the main feature of the day. We cannot do otherwise. We are fully aware of the fact that the roots of our school reach down to the day in 1517 which ushered in the Reformation, this most significant movement in modern history.. The Reformation has left its imprint not only on the church; it also opened a new chapter in education. "If Luther never had written a line on education," Professor Eby of the University of Texas says, "the new religious views had inherent in them a new and vital spirit making for the reform of pedagogy."

Martin Luther saw the crying need of a reformation in education. On the basis of the same principles which were to bring about a reformation of the entire Christian estate, he demanded a "good, sound reformation of the universities."

If we look for a concise statement of Luther's philosophy of education we find it summarized in the title of one of his great books of 1520: Christian Freedom. Here the whole life of the Christian as an individual and as a member of society is brought under one comprehensive viewpoint: the freedom of the Christian from all spiritual slavery. The source of this liberty is the redemption in Christ, this basic fact of history. Freedom is the glorious result of God's "new deal" with man, of justification by faith in Christ. This not only puts man in a new relation to God, but it involves a new relation between man and man—a new society—and a new attitude towards the entire world.

The aim and end of education is the Christian man, not an institution or system, but the man, the personality; and not the the biological man, the animal nature, but the Christian man. Medieval education forgot the first part of this program; modern education falls down on the second.

There are untapped sources of wisdom and knowledge in the Lutheran conception of faith. They are waiting to be released in education. The new man in Christ, the man right with God: here is the nucleus of the philosophy of education which, when seriously applied, will lead to a new way of knowing things and of doing things. Here education has a center around which to biuld all other truths. This stable center, this core of truth alone can put meaning into the mass of isolated scientific facts and incoherent psychological facts and contradictory moral facts and perplexing social facts.

Our great aim is to build around this unifying center in such a way that nothing in our curriculum and in our school life remains untouched. Reformation-Day brings home to us this basic truth. —J. H.

REV. BRAULICK NAMES OBJECTS OF EDUCATION

"Purpose of Education is Manhood, Not Scholarship," President Writes; Teaching To Think Another Aim.

During the past three decades the educational systems of America have been under fire. As in Swift's Battle of the Books arguments have been thrown hither and yon. No one seems to know what it is all about. One group clamors for culture and refinement, another group for practical training and social service. Educators grasp at every new theory as a drowning man clutches at a straw. Instead of bringing order out of chaos, they have added to the general spirit of unrest and confusion.

Today, as never before, when men are thinking with their blood instead of with their brains, when class consciousness and race prejudice are supplanting right thinking and clean living, the aim of education is again being debated. Is it the purpose of education to furnish bread and butter, to get every man a job, or to implant ideals of social service and to show man how to spend his leisure time? Is it the purpose to offer the student a certain Latin or Greek culture, a certain classical polish, a certain pagan philosophy of life? Or is the purpose something else?

We hold that the purpose of education is manhood, not scholarship, Christian manhood as based on the principle of love toward God and mankind. Christian colleges must teach their students how to think individually and how to live collectively. If they can not give their students a higher outlook on life, they are a failure. Wartburg College has been dedicated to the noble task of developing Christian characters and life. It wants to aid young men and young women in preparing for life's duties. In showing them how to make a living, it aims to teach them how to live.

"The nation that has the schools," once said Bismarck, "has the future." We may add, "The church that has the schools has more than the future; it has eternity itself within its grasp."

Vivat, crescat, floreat, Wartburg!

E. J. BRAULICK.

Academy work and the first three years of college were taken at Wartburg at Clinton. He is taking a Greek major (more power to you). "Sleepy's" assets consist of one Ford; liabilities, one roommate. It seems as if his pet peeve is women, while his favorite hobby is sleeping. Favorite expression: "Aw gowan!" Most humorous experience of his life "with his eyes wide open he was dreaming." His extra curricular activities are many and varied—off the campus!

August Englebrecht III

Son of Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Englebrecht. Hails from Mendota, Ill. Graduate of Mendota high school, 1932. First year of college at Wartburg, Waverly. Followed up with two years at Clinton and is now in his senior year taking a German major, and intending to enter the Seminary at Dubuque next year. Extra curricular activities are varied on the campus. He is president of the student body. Plans to enter the field of higher education. Pet peeve: jazz playing radios in the dorm. Favorite hobby: letting his thoughts go across the ocean. Most humorous incident in his life: so surprized when he was born that he couldn't speak for over a year and a half. Favorite expression: "Smoke-a-bolis."

INQUIRING REPORTER

The freshman problem is with us every year, and upperclassmen this year again are atempting to train the freshmen and induct them into the student body in a fitting manner. Our inquiring reporter has asked the opinions of members of various classes on this year's crop of first-year students.

Harry Rappath and "Lena" Leseberg, sophomores, replied:

"We, the exalted and supreme upperclassmen of Wartburg college, believe that this year's crop of humble freshmen are, to say the least, a very poor example of the class of humanity that is going to our college. However, according to reports from other colleges, our freshmen, even though their attainments are as yet shallow, are above the average freshmen in Iowa. In fact we have some who will rapidly overcome their mental bandages.

However, some of these low creatures have the temerity to assign to themselves the exalted position reserved for the upperclassmen, and to these we say, 'Beware!'"

Paul Heist, freshman president, responded:

"The freshman class has not only quantity but quality. This fact will be shown in a very short time.

"At the present time we are the victims of circumstance, due to the lordly attitude of upperclassmen."

August Engelbrecht, president of the student body, says:

"The freshman class of this year is about as alert a group of freshmen as I have ever seen. After the rough edges have been buffed off, they will be a valuable asset to the student body, I hope."

MUSIC GROUPS BEGINNING WORK

Male and Mixed Choruses, Band, and Male Quartette Organize for Coming Year.

Four musical organizations have been established at Wartburg this year: the male chorus, a mixed chorus, the band, and the pep band. Small vocal and instrumental groups will also be organized, and possibly a college orchestra.

The male chorus, under the direction of Professor Thalman, rehearses every Monday and Wednesday at 7:15 P. M. Lutheran chorals, hymns and anthems will be sung. The chorus may go on a concert tour in the spring.

The thirty-two members who have been admitted to this chorus are: First tenors: John Vogts, Erwin Seidel, Stanley Roesler, James Russell, Edward Wagner, Kenneth Koch, August Engelbrecht, Emil Reinking; second tenors: Albert Guetzlaff, Millard Muchow, Otto Mathias, Walter Priebe, Erich Hoefer, Richard Gronewold, Ernest Oppermann, Erwin Knitt; baritone: Ernest Poehlmann, Walter Krebs, Arthur Neumann, Clarence Lange, Elmer Kretzschmar, Alfred Mardorf, Arnold Lehmann, Arno Oberleiter. bass: Erhard Schalkhauser, Paul Piotter, Arnold Karsten, Arnold Jahr, John Halermann, Clifton Woyteck, Carl Mueller, Harry Rappath.

Erhard Schalkhauser has been elected president of the organization and Ernest Poehlmann is librarian.

Professor E. G. Heist, head of the music department, is the director of the mixed chorus. Sacred music will be sung by this chorus, which possibly will make a tour in the spring. The thirty-two members of the choir include:

Helen Schmidt, Frances Twelto, Gertrude Voelker, Ruth Gehrke, Evelyn Moulton, Margaret Kuethe, Rosalma Neubauer, Ina Voelker, Ila Cottermann, Hedwig Rousch, Alma Reck, Olga Lickiss, Elsie Fredericks, Faith Shirley, Mae Cain, Eileen Creviston, Geraldine Dilley, Hiltrude Braulick, Gertrude Guetzlaff, Frieda Gross, Alfred Mardorf, Paul Piotter, Arnold Jahr, Arthur Neumann, Walter Priebe, Kenneth Koch, Luvern Meinecke, Ernest Poehlman, Elmer Kretzschmar, Edward Wagner, Erhard Schalkhauser, Erich Hoefer, Erwin Seidel, Martin Leesberg.

Twenty-five musicians, under the direction of R. V. Leach, comprise the Wartburg band. Rehearsals are held each Monday at 8:15 p. m. Plans are in order for a concert this semester. A pep band has been formed from this organization.

Robert Blazer, f, Hank Koob, 2, and Ray Webb, 1, spent the week end at their homes in Oelwein.

Arthur Nickel, Pre-the 3, visited friends in Albert Lea, Minn., over the week end.

A. E. Engelbrecht, treasurer of Wartburg college, and family went to St. Sebald on Sunday.

KNIGHTS DROP OPENING GAME TO MILTON TEAM

Blocked Kick Paves Way to Visiting Team's Victory; Wartburg Threatens Goal of Opponents Twice

Thursday, Oct. 17, Milton college came from Milton, Wis., to avenge a 19 to 0 defeat meted out by the hands of the Knights last year, by eking out a 7 to 6 victory over Bervin's valiant grid warriors.

Wartburg Keeps Fighting.

The game was a hard fought battle from the opening whistle until the closing gun and it was through the aid of a blocked punt that Milton was able to return home with their first conference victory of the year. Through-out the fray the Knights showed a decided advantage over Milton in yards gained from scrimmage, amassing a total of 16 first downs to 14 for the Wisconsiners. Milton, on the other hand, however, proved to be unpregnable when forced within their own 10 yard line for on two different occasions Wartburg had the ball within the 10 yard zone only to lose the ball on downs.

Wet Ball Prevents Passing.

Wartburg's passing attack failed utterly due to the wet ball which made it almost impossible to do any accurate passing whatsoever. Nevertheless, the Knights tried thirteen passes completing only seven of them, netting the Hersleymen a paltry 36th of their total gain from land to Harden. In kicking the Knights showed unanimity with Stoehling punting the ball consistently and averaged the remarkable distance of 35 yards per try. This kept the ball in Milton's territory and had the one punt not been blocked would undoubtedly have resulted in the game ending in a scoreless tie.

The Knights on the other hand also received their share of breaks but were unable to capitalize on them as to the whole game. Early in the end of the third quarter Stoehling got off another of his beautiful punts which slipped out of the hands of a Milton player and was recovered by Meyer on Milton's seven yard line. On the next play Wartburg was unable to push the ball over and on the last went to Milton. Early in the fourth quarter the Knights again had a golden opportunity to push over a score when Nickel recovered a fumble on Milton's forty yard stripe. Four tries found the Knights inside the enemy's seven yard marker and on the second the fast Wartburg threat at Milton's goal failed.

Fumbles Are Frequent.

The game played on a wet field made fumbles frequent and bruising, fast running difficult. Several nice gains were made by Oberkircher, Nickel and Meier and at times the boys appeared to be out in the open but to slip at the vet spot. In general the Knights played a good game and with the exception of a few costly fumbles and a blocked punt they showed up well. Wartburg was on the small end of the score but most of the fans were certain that the boys were due for a victory and better luck next time than the score would indicate.

point, ending the game. During this quarter Orrie Wartburg completed four out of five passes. Two during the first quarter and once in the third quarter did Wartburg complete a threater, the Aurora goal to have the Spartan line within the shadow of their own goal.

Aurora scored in the second and fourth quarters. The Knights held the Aurora eleven to one first down in the third quarter although most of the gain was made on Wartburg side of the field. The first quarter saw Wartburg Knights carry the ball to Aurora's end of the gridiron.

Early in the fourth quarter, however, Aurora annexed two touchdowns on straight football. After two attempts, however, the score remained the same when the team failed. For Aurora made their first downs while Wartburg was able to attain twelve.

Lindahl carried the brunt of the Wartburg attack while Nickel, Keeb, and Worrith showed up best for the Knights.

BLACK MAGIC

Headlineman Stevenson thought that Black Magic was about during the Milton-Wartburg football game. A fumble resulted in a "Huddle" Stevenson rushed in to recover the ball. He pulled apart arms and legs, peered beneath, but could not locate it. Where he could not see, but no ball. Quickly he straightened the aisle of humanity, but no ball appeared. A long Milton player was found to be the guilty one, but he wondered what the fuss was all about as he crept out of the ball.

CAGE GAMES

Wartburg will during the basketball season participate in two conventions with the Tri-State Conference of which Wartburg is already a member. While the basketball schedule is not yet completed, it is the probable 20 games have been arranged with Wartburg as a member of the conference from 1931 to 1934.

After this year, however, Wartburg will drop out of the conference and attempt to arrange games with other Iowa schools. Whether the Knights will join the Iowa conference and what that group would be has not been decided.

The basketball schedule as far as is completed is as follows:

Dec. 5—Lenox, here; non-conf.

THREE NEW TENNIS COURTS

City Provides New Wire Netting Resurface Courts In Spring Students to Maintain

Wartburg students have new tennis courts. The city of Waverly has erected a new wire around the three regulation courts.

In the spring the city will resurface the courts and the whole will be in charge of the students. The college is having a new water main to facilitate the work. Coach Horst Bleile: "Undoubtedly many violations with other colleges will be cancelled as a part of our spring sports program."

Provided there is an abundance of cold weather, the courts will be flooded for a skating rink. If the weather isn't suitable this will not be done, for too much water on the court will be detrimental.

Dean Fritz Tells of "Our Securities"

What a time men everywhere in recent years have been having with their securities. Their deeds may be on property that has decreased in value; bonds, stock certificates may not now represent anything; investments for the money invested. Men and women were in their new homes, and were in all their lives so that in old age they might not be dependent on relatives nor have seen the values behind their securities vanish, never to be in the place of total loss.

With no such misfortune under such grave financial disasters, the governments, the banks, corporations and methods to guard against similar losses in the future, the final earthly security that can be offered is that which is offered in the Christian faith. Here is the one investment that may be depended on, even by the governments disappear and nations are crushed.

No matter where one looks we are finding in an insecure world. There is no security anywhere. Our world is truly a world of chaos.

Are we any better off with securities? Is there a Fifth in our pocket? I can't money? When we say that we have lost faith in money that we have invested our spirit and money in Christian service. If our securities are fraudulent or insufficient our spiritual investments of faith is gone. If we have faith in nothing we have become without purpose. It is well to turn to the great securities of our faith so that they have been sent into.

The first security of our faith is the security of the historical Christ. Not the Christ of theology, but the Christ of history. The Christ that was born and lived and was crucified and rose again. The security of our faith lies in the historical Christ we mean the Christ whose record is written with such charm in the four gospels Jesus, the good convincing of all written documents, are irresistible facts of the Nazarene, Jesus.

The next security of our faith in Christ is our experience. But we must distinguish between a real experience and an emotion. We may conclude this as a test: if what it brought to be an experience has made no change there is nothing but emotion. But a great change appears we may set it down as an experience and an experience seems to give Christians the right to say, I know." Abraham, Paul and Martin Luther have had such experiences and we can see it as truly believe and follow Christ. Christ is the security of our faith.

The last security of our faith we can take the words of Whittier, "For all good and evil things make of things.

Men tossed by storm and flood.
To one fixed ground my spirit clings.
I know that God is good."

Knowledge of the goodness of God is not acquired in a day. But it is slowly acquired after many struggles and tribulations. It has to be tested in fire and flood. Sometimes one does not learn it until this is all that is left to which to cling. Keep these securities intact. If in this uncertain world all else is despoiled, and we have these we are rich indeed.
